

YEAR IN REVIEW

2021 - 2022

SOCIAL SCIENCES

Preface

The sixth edition of the Faculty of Social Sciences Year in Review catalogues our activities during another year compounded by the continued uncertainty and disruption caused by the COVID-19 pandemic.

The last year has stretched us, but our faculty, staff and students have continued to make great strides towards our mission of asking challenging questions, pursuing understanding and working with others to create a more sustainable and just society.

The Year in Review document is for the faculty, staff and students of the Faculty of Social Sciences, as a way of documenting our activities, which can help assess progress against many of our goals. It provides information regarding several crucial areas including undergraduate and graduate education, research and scholarship, funding and donations, and reputation management. In the last year, the Faculty has already made excellent progress toward strengthening its internal data management processes, and we expect this document will continue to develop to reflect these improvements.

Thank you to everyone who contributed to the 2021-22 Year in Review. It is a testament to the teamwork and transparency that is central to our work and community.

People

The Faculty of Social Sciences continued to attract and retain some of the best experts in their fields over the last year. This growth strategy continues to align with the faculty's priority of attaining excellence in education, scholarly research, and service to the University and its communities.

Faculty Transitions

The Faculty of Social Sciences welcomed several new faculty, post-doctoral fellows, visitors and other scholars between July 1, 2021, and June 30, 2022. Many faculty members were promoted, while others retired after years of dedicated service.

New Hires

- Nathan Andrews, Associate Professor (tenured), Political Science
- Savage Bear (formerly Tracy Bear), Assistant Professor (tenure-track), Indigenous Studies Program
- Sarah Clancy, Assistant (teaching-track) Professor, Health, Aging & Society
- Jeremy Cohen, Lecturer (CLA), Religious Studies
- Arij Elmi, Lecturer (tenure-track), Social Work
- Anthea Innes, Professor (tenured), Health Aging & Society
- Robert Innes, Associate Professor (tenured), Indigenous Studies Program
- Anne-Marie Livingstone, Assistant Professor (tenure-track), Sociology
- Emily Merson, Assistant Professor (CLA), Political Science

Tenure, Permanence and Promotion

- Mirna Carranza was promoted to Professor of Social Work
- Tristan Carter was promoted to Professor of Anthropology
- Phillipa Chong achieved tenure and promoted to Associate Professor of Sociology
- Michelle Dion was promoted to Professor of Political Science

- Bonnie Freeman achieved tenure and was promoted to Associate Professor of Social Work
- Lisa Kaida achieved tenure and was promoted to Associate Professor of Sociology
- Tara La Rose achieved tenure and promoted to Associate Professor of Social Work
- Inder Marwah achieved tenure and promoted to Associate Professor of Political Science

Administrative Transitions

- Gavin Andrews was appointed Acting Chair of the Department of Health, Aging & Society on July 1, 2021
- James Gillett was appointed Director of the Community Research Platform on July 1, 2021
- Ameil Joseph was appointed as the Faculty of Social Sciences' Professor in Equity, Identity and Transformation and as the Academic Director of Community-Engaged Research and Relationships by the Office of Community Engagement
- Celia Rothenberg was appointed Chair of the Department of Religious Studies on July 1, 2021
- Bradley Ruffle was reappointed as Director of the McMaster Decision Science Laboratory (McDSL) on July 1, 2021

Post-doctoral Fellows

- Deena Abul Fottouh, Sociology, Understanding COVID misinformation streams, McMaster Global Nexus Funds & Faculty Contributions
- Aly Bailey, Health, Aging & Society, Equitable access to physical activity and sport, SSHRC IG
- Sina Baleka, Anthropology, Evolutionary History of Elephants, DFG, NSERC
- Alex Beyer, Political Science, Big Data, Elections, Political Behavior, Public Opinion, Public Policy, Survey Methodology, Voting Advice Applications, MITACS
- Sarah Duignan, Anthropology, Water Insecurity at Six Nations, Global Water Futures
- Celine Gillot, Anthropology, Architectural Connections: Building Houses and Communities at Rio Bec., Fonds de Recherche du Québec–Société et Culture
- Nicole Malette, Sociology, Gateway Cities –phase two, K. Robson
- Mark Norman, Health, Aging & Society, Trauma, Incarceration and Youth, HAS, Memorial University of Newfoundland (MUN), Community Research Platform (CRP) and J. Gillett
- Donya Razavi, Health, Aging & Society, Gender Transformative Menstrual Hygiene Management (MHM) Program Implementation in Low and Middle-Income Countries, MITACS and L. Kipiriri
- Claudia-Marcela Velez, Health, Aging & Society, Health policy, decision making and priority setting, McMaster COVID-19 research fund
- Tyler Murchie, Anthropology, Extinction horizon and late survival of North American, CANA Foundation, NSERC
- Krystn Orr, School of Social Work, A participatory approach to redeveloping coach and volunteer online training modules: A Special Olympics Context, MITACS Elevate Postdoctoral Fellowship Program/Special Olympics Ontario
- Diana Singh, Sociology, Mental health community research platform, M. Young
- Daina Stanley, School of Social Work, Building Knowledge and Networks to Improve Health and Social Service Outcomes for Older Justice-Involved Persons: A Pilot Study,

Aging Research in Criminal Justice and Health (ARCH) Network R24 of the National Institutes of Health

- Kaitlin Wynia, Health, Aging & Society, Toward the development of a framework for research collaboration between public libraries and universities, MITACS

Retirements

- Ellen Badone, Professor, Department of Religious Studies
- Stephanie Baker-Collins, Professor, School of Social Work

Resignations

- Daniel Machiela, Associate Professor, Department of Religious Studies

Distinguished Visiting Speakers

Despite the restrictions on gathering in place because of the COVID-19 pandemic, departments could still host some distinguished guests virtually from July 1, 2021, through June 30, 2022.

Hooker Distinguished Visiting Professor for 2022

Economics

- Dirk Krueger, Professor in the Social Sciences and Professor of Economics, University of Pennsylvania, "The Fiscal and Welfare Effects of Policy Responses to the Covid-19 School Closures".

2021-22 Labelle Lecture

Economics

- Jay Shaw, Assistant Professor at the University of Toronto's Dalla Lana School of Public Health, "Will Innovation Save Health Care? Issues and Opportunities for Health Care as a Public Good."

Awards and Distinctions

The following awards were conferred upon faculty members between July 1, 2021, and June 30, 2022.

- Gavin Andrews, Health, Aging & Society, was awarded a prestigious Doctor of Science by the University of Nottingham
- Nathan Andrews, Political Science, received the Faculty's 2022 Early Career Award
- Bettina Brüggemann, Economics, won a 2022 Best Paper Award for the American Economic Journal: Macroeconomics
- Sarah Clancy, Health, Aging and Society and Social Psychology, received the 2022 McMaster Student Union Excellence Teaching Award for the Faculty of Social Sciences
- Nicole Dalmer, Health, Aging & Society, received the Faculty's 2022 Early Career Award
- Jeff Denis, Sociology, won the John Porter Tradition of Excellence Book Award
- Jim Dunn, Health, Aging & Society, was named as one of Canada's top 10 researchers in Social Sciences and Humanities by research.com
- David Feeny, Economics, was named as one of Canada's top 10 researchers in Social Sciences and Humanities by research.com
- Ann Fudge Schormans, School of Social Work, received the 2022 Faculty Impact Award

- Chelsea Gabel, Health, Aging & Society, was named a 2022 University Scholar
- Michel Grignon, Health, Aging & Society, received a 2021 Graduate Student Recognition Award for Excellence in Graduate Supervision
- Meirav Jones, Religious Studies, received the 2022 McMaster Student Union Excellence Teaching Award for the Arts and Sciences Program
- Ameil Joseph, School of Social Work, Faculty of Social Sciences Professorship in Equity, Identity and Transformation
- Adam Lavecchia, Economics, was awarded the 2021 John Charles Polanyi Prize in Economic Sciences
- Dawn Martin-Hill, Anthropology, was awarded the University of Oklahoma International Water Prize
- Robert O'Brien, Political Science, was awarded the Fulbright Canada Research Chair in Public Diplomacy
- Sally E. Palmer, School of Social Work, received an Ontario Senior Achievement Award
- Netina Tan, Political Science, received the 2022 Global Scholar-in-Community Fellowship
- Vanessa Watts, Indigenous Studies and Sociology, received the 2021 President's Award for Outstanding Contributions to Teaching and Learning

Honorary Degrees

At the Fall 2021 Convocation for Business, Humanities, Social Sciences and Arts & Science, the following individuals received honorary degrees:

Harold Brathwaite (posthumous)

Harold Brathwaite received his elementary and secondary education in Barbados and his undergraduate education took him to Jamaica and France. Brathwaite taught at the elementary, secondary and university levels, and has served on several professional associations and Ministry of Education committees. He has been a department head, vice-principal, Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent of Program and was Principal of M.M. Robinson High School in Burlington.

He joined the Toronto Board of Education in 1984 as Superintendent for French-Language Schools and subsequently held the positions of Superintendent of the East Family of Secondary Schools and Coordinating Superintendent of Secondary Schools. He was appointed Associate Director of Education - Human Resources in 1991 and took on the added responsibilities of Program in 1993. Harold was promoted to the position of Director of Education for the Peel Board of Education in 1994, becoming the first Black person to lead a school board in Canada. He died in 2020.

Don McLean

Don McLean is a lifelong environmentalist and advocate for open government. McLean is also a co-founder of Environment Hamilton and was also the Chair of the Friends of Red Hill Valley from 1992 to 2003. The grassroots citizens' organization worked tirelessly to protect the only remaining green corridor between the Niagara Escarpment and Lake Ontario in East Hamilton. Even after the Red Hill Valley Parkway was eventually built, the community legacy of the Friends of Red Hill Valley remained significant through energized local environmental and activist groups and through the annual environmental seminar series called the Spirit of Red Hill Valley, which McLean created and guided.

McLean is also a former board member of the Hamilton Naturalists' Club and former vice-chair of the Bay Area Restoration Council, which handles public education and advocacy on behalf of the remediation of Hamilton Harbour. McLean was recognized with the Award of Merit at the 1992 Hamilton Environmentalist of the Year event and, five years later, with the Dr. Victor Ceciloni Environmentalist of the Year Award.

In 2004, he founded and coordinated Citizens at City Hall (CATCH), to improve transparency and hold Hamilton City Council accountable for its decisions and empower other citizens to speak up. He wrote over 1,600 articles for CATCH, enhancing accountability and public awareness. His voice is also familiar to listeners of CFMU 93.5 for his longstanding presence on Transit Talk.

A recipient of the Queen's Diamond Jubilee Medal in 2012, McLean has also received the Independent Media Lifetime Achievement Award and was inducted into the Hamilton Gallery of Distinction in 2019.

At the Spring convocation on June 15, 2022, an honorary degree was conferred to the following individuals:

Pamela Appelt

Pamela Appelt is a retired judge and community volunteer who has spent her life working to improve the lives of children and families. Born in Jamaica, Appelt came to Canada in 1966 and worked as a researcher in medical biochemistry at McGill University for several years. Appelt holds a master's degree in Public Policy and later became the first female Afro-Canadian to serve as a judge of the Court of Canadian Citizenship. She has spent her life working with many community and national organizations. She helped found the Black-Jewish dialogue of B'Nai Brith Canada. Appelt also played an instrumental role in bringing the archives of iconic Jamaican Canadian poet Louise Bennett Coverley to the McMaster University Library.

Elva Jamieson

Elva Jamieson is from the Cayuga Nation of the Six Nations of the Grand River. She has dedicated her life to protecting and sharing traditional Indigenous epistemology, language and culture. A traditional healer and a Faith Keeper within the Cayuga Longhouse, Jamieson taught the Cayuga language and was vice principal of the Kawenni:io/Gaweni:yo Elementary and Secondary School at Six Nations before founding Juddah's Place, a collaborative care model clinic that offers primary care and Indigenous traditional services. Jamieson has shared her knowledge with McMaster students and has also played a key role in the University's development of the Indigenous Health Learning Lodge. Over many years, Jamieson has been a guiding voice in the Faculty of Health Sciences' response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada's Calls to Action.

Staff Transitions

In 2022, permanent support staff across the Faculty numbered 67.42. Part-time/casual/student staff numbered 25.42. The total number of support staff was 92.84. This number represents core staff, deviating from previous Year-in-Review reports which captured all interim staff, including those paid through research grants or other alternative sources.

New Appointments***

- Claire Arsenault, Academic Advisor, Office of the Associate Dean Academic

- Emma Beamson, Administrative Assistant, Department of Economics
  - Sara Binnie, Undergraduate Administrative Assistant, Department of Political Science

- Tina Horton, Academic Advisor, Office of the Associate Dean Academic
- Theresa Marrin, Academic Advisor, Office of the Associate Dean Academic
- Lars Nielsen, SEAL Lab Manager, Spark: a centre for social research innovation.

Resignations

- Matthew Belan, Academic Advisor, Office of the Associate Dean Academic
- Jennifer Graci, Manager of Finance and Data Analysis, Office of Dean
- Carrie McMullin, Program Administrator, Indigenous Studies Program
- Jennifer Nettleton, Undergraduate Administrator, Department of Religious Studies

Awards and Distinctions

The following awards were conferred to staff between July 1, 2021, and June 30, 2022.

- Vass Bednar, Master of Public Policy in Digital Society, was a recipient of the 2021 President's Awards for Outstanding Service

- Kristine Espiritu, Health, Aging & Society, received a 2021 Graduate Student Recognition Award for Contributions by Non-Academic Staff

Years of Service Awards

The following employees reached a service milestone between July 1, 2021 and June 30, 2022.

10 Years of Service Recipients

- Mark Busser, Careers and Experiential Education
- Anthony Tambureno, School of Labour Studies

15 Years of Service Recipients

- Hassanain Awadh, Sociology
- Tammy Maikawa, School of Social Work
- Sam Vrankulj, School of Labour Studies
- Bonnie Kahlon, Anthropology

20 Years of Service Recipients

- David Cameron, Economics
- Suzanne Hunt, Faculty of Social Sciences
- Wendy Ryckman, Political Science
- Wendy Spencer, Faculty of Social Science

25 Years of Service Recipients

- Karen Bird, Political Science
- Neil McLaughlin, Sociology
- Petra Rethmann, Anthropology

Obituaries

Between the period, faculty and staff said farewell to several colleagues. We continue to extend condolences to the families and friends of Jack Haas, Edward Glanville, Stuart Mestelman, Robert Andrew Muller and Susan Watt.

Jack Haas, Sociology (1939-2021)

Born in Buffalo, New York, Dr. Jack Haas attended Brockport University where he earned a PhD in Sociology. A keen advocate for social justice, while working as a professor in the United States, Haas vocally supported the student movement opposed to the Vietnam war and was dismissed from two university posts. In 1971, Haas moved to Canada, spending most of his academic career at McMaster University. He pioneered qualitative analysis in the field and was renowned for his studies exploring group behaviour.

Edward Glanville, Anthropology (1936-2022)

Former Chair of the Department of Anthropology, Dr. Edward Glanville, died in January 2022. A former student of Trinity College and the Avoca School, colleagues and students will fondly remember Glanville.

Stuart Mestelman, Economics (1943-2022)

Dr. Stuart Mestelman joined McMaster's Department of Economics as an assistant professor in 1969 before being promoted to associate professor in 1976, and then to professor in 1986. His research interests were many, but he primarily focused on public economics, resource and environmental economics and industrial organization.

Mestelman was also a leading contributor to the development of the field of experimental economics. In 1994, he and his colleagues helped found the McMaster Experimental Economics Laboratory, he served as the lab's co-director between 1994 and 2017, beyond his official retirement from McMaster in 2008. He also served as acting associate dean in the Faculty of Social Sciences for one year between 2004 and 2005. In July 2002, he also briefly acted as the dean. He held the position of Chair of the Department of Economics on two occasions, between 1986 and 1992 and again between 1997 and 2004. In his decades-long career, Stuart published dozens of papers and contributed to many books.

Robert Andrew Muller, Economics (1943 – 2021)

A graduate of the University of Toronto, Dr. Robert “Andy” Muller joined McMaster’s Department of Economics in 1972 and retired in 2008. During his decades at McMaster, Andy taught undergraduate and graduate courses in microeconomics, industrial organization, environmental and resource economics, and experimental economics.

Andy was a pioneer in the development of the use of controlled laboratory experiments to study economic environments in Canada. His experience in computer programming was critical to the establishment of the computer laboratory that was the heart of the McMaster Experimental Economics Laboratory, becoming the co-director in 1994. Since then, the facility has grown into the McMaster Decision Science Laboratory, in which both market and non-market decision-making is studied.

Susan Watt, School of Social Work (1947 – 2022)

Dr. Susan Watt joined the McMaster School of Social Work faculty in 1977 and served as Director from 1987 to 1993. Her program of research examined the intersections of health care and social policy and strengthened health services and improved education for professional practice in health settings.

Over her career, Watt was known as an exemplary and skilled citizen of McMaster, contributing to university governance at all levels and mentoring many junior colleagues. She served as Associate Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences from 2005 to 2010 and, in that role and in her contributions to the MacPherson Institute, she provided leadership in pedagogical research and innovation. For many years after her retirement in 2013, Watt also mobilized her resources as a scholar and advocate in the areas of health care for women and newborn infants in Canada and the global south.

Research and Scholarly Activities

2021-22 represented another successful year for researchers in the Faculty of Social Sciences. Rising to the challenge of monitoring the tremendous social, cultural, political and economic impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, many researchers worked throughout the last two years to publish research on current and developing issues. Because of the excellent work of the Faculty’s Research Support Team, there was a 146% increase in new research funding in 2021-22 compared to the previous year.

The Faculty also continues to partner with multiple private, public-sector, and community organizations, agencies, groups, and not-for-profit organizations. The following shows the quality and scope of the Faculty’s research activities.

Research Funding

$12.8 MILLION in new research funding

Social Sciences internal and external research funding

The period marked the second consecutive year of COVID-19 restrictions and interruptions. Despite this, social sciences researchers continued to garner significant investment in their programs from reputable funding programs.

As Principal Investigators (PIs), 44 faculty members received over $12.8 million in new research funding, an increase from $5.2 million in the previous year. Notably, over $9 million was awarded to find solutions to enhance the recruitment, hiring, promotion and retainment of persons with disabilities in the workforce. Over $300,000 will go towards the exploration of how data can prevent and manage infections and death from COVID-19 in older adults. Although not recorded in this document, faculty also played significant roles in research grants awarded to the university that are worth several millions of dollars as co-investigators and collaborators.

2020-21 New Funding	Tri-Council	Non-Tri Council	McMaster	COVID-19	Total
Total new	$10,304,065	$2,126,307	$94,770	$333,326	$12,858,468

Applications for Research Funding

There was a slight decline in the success rate of social sciences researchers in funding competitions through the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (SSHRC) over the period. However, the overall performance continues to exceed national averages in many programs.

In SSHRC's flagship Insight Grant competition, 45% or 5 of 11 applications from the faculty were successful. Our researchers exceeded national success rates in the Insight Development Grant competition with a 57% success rate (4 of 7 applications from FSS successful), the Partnership Engage Grant competition with a 100% success rate (5 of 5 applications from FSS successful), and the Connection Grant competition with a 75% success rate (3 of 4 applications from FSS successful). These performances are an indicator of the impact and quality of the projects our researchers are pursuing, and researchers develop. Researchers also achieved strong results in an array of highly competitive local and national non-tri-agency competitions, securing $2.2 million in research support from these sources. These include large grants through the Ontario Ministry of Transportation and the Canadian Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Faculty of Social Sciences Research Awards

The faculty's internal awards are annual nomination-based research awards. Four faculty members received the awards in 2021-22.

The Early Career Researcher Award recognizes research excellence by an early-stage faculty member. This is demonstrated through contributions to one's field of study, providing a stimulating research environment that incorporates students and teaching and effectively communicating research results. This year, there were two recipients.

Nathan Andrews (Political Science) and Nicole Dalmer (Health, Aging and Society) are the 2022 Early Career Researcher Award recipients.

The Impact Award recognizes outstanding long-term research outcomes that take the form of changed thinking, behaviours and policy, research impacts, knowledge mobilization, and/or outreach activities. The 2022 recipient is Ann Fudge Schormans (School of Social Work).

The Global Scholar-in-Community Fellowship (formerly the Scholar-in-Community Fellowship) provides a faculty member with the opportunity for research collaborations with community organizations to produce and mobilize knowledge in mutually beneficial ways. The 2022 Global Scholar-in-Community fellow is Netina Tan (Political Science).

Research Institutes, Centres and Platforms

The Faculty of Social Sciences hosts many research institutes, centres and platforms, many with a strong interdisciplinary focus and providing stimulating research environments for our faculty and students. Faculty from the Social Sciences take leading roles in several inter-faculty research institutes and centres that, collectively, span the university.

Research Partners

Research partners are diverse and include organizations including:

- Federal government
- Government of Ontario
- Other provincial governments
- Municipalities and regional organizations
- Indigenous Nations and organizations
- Non-profit and community organizations
- Post-secondary institutions
- Private business organizations
- Professional organizations and associations
- Think tanks and research organizations
- Advocacy groups

See Appendix A for a selection of these research partners.

Community Research Platform

The Community Research Platform (CRP) launched in 2019 and was recognized as a core research platform at McMaster in 2021. The CRP is a collaborative initiative between the Faculty of Social Sciences and five local community organizations:

- Canadian Mental Health Association of Hamilton (CMHA)
- Young Women’s Christian Association of Hamilton (YWCA)
- John Howard Society of Ontario (JHSO)
- Hamilton Public Library (HPL)
- Centre 3 for Artistic and Social Practice (C3)

The CRP’s main aim is to provide the infrastructure, resources, and support to advance mutually beneficial and impactful research collaboration between university researchers and community partners. Stakeholders share research infrastructure in the form of space, software, data, equipment, and expertise. The CRP has formed five interdisciplinary/intersectoral research work groups focused on thematic areas that align with the expertise and interests of McMaster researchers and the mandates of community partners.

They include:

- Mental Health
- Gender and Intersectionality
- Crime, Criminalization and Punishment
- Social Engagement and Community Resilience
- Arts-informed Research. Each group works to advance research that contributes to social impact (i.e., shedding light on social issues, supporting innovation, and providing guidance for program development and/or policy).

Below are some key CRP highlights from the reporting period (June 2021-July 2022):

Knowledge Exchange and Mobilization

In 2021-22, members of McMaster's Social Sciences community organized and hosted over 70 seminars and speaker series events, as well as over one dozen conferences, symposia and workshops to ensure faculty and graduate student research was widely shared across campus and beyond.

There was a gradual relaxation of the restrictions on gathering first introduced during the pandemic, and as a result, they held more events than in the prior year. However, many departments continued to host fewer events or held events virtually out of an abundance of caution. The faculty hopes that in the coming years they can fully resume regular events when it is safe to do so.

For a list of events held over the year, refer to Appendix B.

News and Social Media

Internal News Stories

The faculty's communications team works closely with McMaster University's Communications, Marketing and Public Affairs team (CMPA) to highlight the work done by our researchers. These updates are published to the university's Daily News and Brighter World sites.

In addition to this, department staff also ensure the visibility of research efforts is maintained by consistently producing internal news stories and event updates for publication to the FSS website under the News and Events section. These articles are not recorded in this document; however, this should not diminish the significance of the contribution and the excellent work done by FSS researchers, staff and students.

This section is dedicated to news items written by McMaster staff and faculty for external audiences through three channels: The Conversation, The Daily News (McMaster) and Brighter World (McMaster).

The period of July 1, 2021, and June 30, 2022, was again successful for researchers in the Faculty of Social Sciences. Faculty, alumni and students were mentioned, featured or cited in 13,390 articles and broadcasts domestically and internationally. This represented an increase of 150% compared to 2020-21.

Social Media

The Faculty's social media platforms continued to grow between July 1, 2021, and June 30, 2022. During this period, the faculty managed three main social media channels, a Facebook account, a Twitter account, and an Instagram account. There is also a YouTube channel which is used sporadically. In January 2022, a LinkedIn page was created to promote the faculty's employer brand.

The Faculty's communications team continues to review the social media strategy to guarantee the best results for each platform. Apart from the Facebook page, all platforms showed growth over the 12 months. To address the declines in the Facebook page, the team will incorporate more digital ads to supplement the organic content strategy in the future.

Careers & Experiential Education

Students enrolled in the Faculty of Social Sciences can participate in a variety of enriching experiential learning opportunities through the Careers & Experiential Education Office. The office creates experiences that foster unique approaches to learning within a classroom, and more actively in the community as well as promoting career exploration.

40%

Increase in placed interns
over the prior year

61%

Increase in funds awarded to students over the prior year

32%

Increase in partner organizations over the prior year

Professional Development

212 students enrolled in career development courses and 55 career advising appointments in the initial two months of service during 2021-22.

Experiential Placements

There were 144 paid internship postings, 25 interns placed and 173 academic placements over the period.

Funding

The office awarded $4,520.00 in funds to students, and $2,050.00 in funds to faculty over 2021-22.

Community Partnerships

The office partnered with 67 organizations in the private, non-profit sector, public sector, and private industry during the period.

Professional or Skill Development

236 students enrolled in two Faculty-offered courses administered by the Careers & Experiential Education team. These courses supported students' professional or skill development:

- SOC SCI 2ELO: Career Planning Through Experiential Learning (212)
- SOC SCI 3EL3: Leadership Through Experiential Learning (24)

An additional 94 students participated in workshops, events and information sessions that promote professional development, career planning and career networking, and hands-on learning including the following:

- Social Sciences Careers Ask Me Anything (Social Sciences Career Crawl)
- International Student Job Search Workshop (Social Sciences Career Crawl)
- Resume Workshop (Social Sciences Career Crawl) - for Social Psychology Society
- Interview Workshop (Social Sciences Career Crawl) - for Society, Culture and Religion Scholars/SCaRS
- Political Science Global Citizenship Specialization Info Session - Co-host with Student Success Centre
- Student Experience Fund Information Sessions

- Transition Support for McMaster English Language Development (MELD) students.

An additional 324 students attended in-course career development sessions as the C&EE team shifted towards a strategy focused on in-class engagement due to diminished demand for workshops and events. In-class sessions included the following topics:

- Skills Identification
- Resume Essentials
- LinkedIn Essentials
- Job Search Essentials
- Research Opportunities and Future Jobs in Research (116)
- Career Exploration Foundations (163)

Individual career advising appointments began in February 2022. The Career Development Advisor met with 55 students seeking assistance in:

- Career options
- Further education information and planning
- Job search assistance such as resume, cover letter, job searching, networking, interview preparation and LinkedIn.

Experiential Placements

Experiential placements put students in the workplace to learn first-hand, what is involved in various professions and gain valuable professional experience. Placements include the following:

- Paid internships (25) completed through the elective Social Sciences Internship Program.
- Unpaid academic placements (173) completed as an in-course element.

Funding

In 2021-22, there was still a marked drop in applications for the Student Experience Fund. This is likely the impact of the lingering COVID-19 pandemic, as most students who received funding in past used the funds to travel to conferences or to volunteer abroad. As students were unable to travel for much of the period, there were only 10 Social Sciences students who received funding through the Student Experience Fund. Some examples of their experiences include:

- Real estate case competition
- Mental Health First Aid training
- Virtual volunteering with an NGO in Columbia.

Funds also supported the McMaster Model United Nations (MACMUN), a hallmark campus event that is open to students from all Faculties.

The pilot Faculty funding from last year has been formalized into the In-Course Experience Fund. This year faculty and instructors applied for guest speaker payments only. This is likely due to in-person restrictions for other in-course or out-of-classroom experiential opportunities. A total of $2,050.00 was allocated over six courses, some with multiple guest speakers.

Community Partnerships

Partnerships with employers and community organizations provide hands-on skills development and integration of classroom theory in real-world scenarios. In the 2021-22 academic year, Careers & Experiential Education worked with 67 community partners across private, public and not-for-profit sectors.

Some new internship employers include Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation; Challenge Factory; Crown-Indigenous Relations and Northern Affairs Canada, and Women in Capital Markets.

Academic placements continued to be limited to virtual experiences. Last year's community partners were able to host all students who needed placement. There were, however, two new partners for a political science course that had not been offered since Fall 2019 due to the pandemic: City of Hamilton (Elections) and MPP Jeff Burch.

Co-op Program Planning

Across the 2021-2022 academic year, the Careers & Experiential Education team began to lay the foundation for introducing co-op programming in the faculty. A series of environmental scans and initial reports informed a Winter 2022 Strategic Alignment Fund (SAF), which successfully received funding from the provost's office. Pending formal approval through the required governance processes, co-op programs will be formally announced as a variant option for several of our departmental undergraduate programs as a starting point in the near future.

Graduate Education

The Faculty of Social Sciences offers 24 graduate programs leading to masters or doctoral degrees and three programs leading to graduate diplomas.

Financial Matters

Faculty of Social Science Budget

The table below presents high-level statement of our finances for 2021-22. A few aspects are noteworthy:

- Over 90% of FSS revenue is derived from tuition and government funding for students enrolled in our programs and students we teach in our courses.
- Over 40% of our revenue was paid as contributions to support central university support services, which range from heat to human resources to the library and to the President's Office.
- Aside from these central contributions, over 90% of FSS expenditures are for people: faculty, staff, and TA support.
- Over the last few years, the faculty eliminated its debt and has accumulated a surplus balance, which is integral to our fiscal sustainability going forward and to making strategic investments in people and spaces.
- The total accumulated consolidated surplus attributed to the FSS is $20.4 million. Departments and schools control a share (~$2M in department discretionary accounts; $320K in TA accounts); while over $450K is controlled by individual faculty as unspent PDA and similar accounts; and some is held in several small research-oriented accounts that roll up under the overall FSS budget.
