Combined Honours
If you're interested in doing a Combined Honours degree you must meet the entry requirements for BOTH programs.
Consider Adding a Minor to Your Honours Degree

Minors are a great opportunity to explore a secondary area of study. You can take a minor for personal interest or focus on an area of expertise related to your program and career goals. Unlike random elective courses, Minors are noted on your transcript. Most departments in the Faculty of Social Sciences offer Minors. Minors are also available from a variety of departments in other Faculties. In addition to single subject area Minors, students can also pursue Minors that cross several areas of study which are called Interdisciplinary Minors and include:

- Archaeology
- Community Engagement
- Globalization Studies
- Justice, Law & Order
- Muslim Studies
- Public Leadership
- Religion & Diversity
- Social Justice and Inclusive Communities
- Mental Health, Addiction and Society
- Sustainability

Most Minors consist of 24 units of course work. Students should consult the Undergraduate Calendar for the specific course requirements to complete their desired Minor. Some Minors have limited enrolment and there is a formal admission process. However, most Minors permit you to simply declare that you have completed all of the requirements at the time of graduation.
