I. DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

Admission to the M.A. in Political Science degree program requires an average of B+ or better in Honours Political Science or, with the approval of the Department’s Graduate Chair, in another discipline. The M.A. in Political Science offers concentrations (majors) in four areas: Canadian Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory and Public Policy. In the M.A. in Political Science program, studies in all areas may take the form of course work and comprehensive examinations, or course work and a thesis.

A. COURSE WORK WITH COMPREHENSIVE EXAMINATIONS
Six half courses (or equivalent) at the graduate level and written comprehensive examinations. Normally 3 half courses are taken during the Fall term and 3 half courses during the Winter term. The comprehensive examinations are written in the latter half of July. Students are responsible for one major (two subfields) and one minor (one subfield) area. Major subfields may be chosen from: Canadian Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Public Policy and Administration. Minor subfields may be chosen from: Canadian Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory, and Public Policy and Administration.

B. COURSE WORK WITH THESIS
Five half courses (or equivalent) and a thesis, which must demonstrate independent research skills. Full-time students who wish to write a thesis must submit a thesis proposal for departmental approval by December 1st of Term 1. If the thesis proposal is not approved, students may continue in the course/comprehensive option. The thesis option is normally a two-year program.

II. COURSE WORK

Students who undertake the course/comprehensive option are required to complete 18 units (6 half courses) of course work beyond the B.A. level. For students who pursue the course/thesis option, the requirement is 15 units (5 half courses): 9 units to be taken in Term 1, followed by 6 units in Term 2.

Students should consult with the MA Political Science Graduate Advisor and with the Area Convenors on the appropriate courses to take.

The University and the Department use a letter grade system in which the following are passing grades: A+, A, A-, B+, B, B-. A grade below B- is considered a failure in graduate courses. While a B- standing is sufficient to earn a degree by School of Graduate Studies criteria, a failure in any course normally results in the Department recommending that the student not be allowed to continue.

Exceptional Incompletes: Incompletes will be granted only in very unusual circumstances. To qualify, the student must apply for one by filling out the University’s Incomplete Petition Form. This must be signed by the instructor, and must be submitted to the Graduate Chair for approval. Deadlines for removal of incomplete grades are given in the School of Graduate Studies Calendar. Courses still incomplete after the deadline are given a grade of F (fail) and the student is not permitted to re-register without the approval of the School of Graduate Studies Committee on Graduate Admissions and Study.

III. COMPREHENSIVE EXAMINATIONS

Only those students in the course/comprehensive option will write comprehensive examinations. Examinations are normally scheduled over a one-week period in mid-July.

Examinations will be written in both a major area and a minor area. The areas in which students may choose to major are: Canadian Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Public Policy and Administration. Minor subfields may be chosen from: Canadian Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory, and Public Policy and Administration.
In the major area, comprehensive examinations consist of 2 three-hour subfield examinations. In the minor area, comprehensive examinations consist of 1 three-hour subfield examination. Students will be asked to confirm their selected areas (major, minor and subfields) for comprehensive examination by late April. Study guides, as well as copies of the comprehensive examination questions for the previous year will be made available before that time. Students are generally advised to choose subfields in which they have done course work in the Department.

Comprehensive examinations will be graded by at least two faculty members. As with courses, a grade below B- is considered a failure in the comprehensive examinations. The outcome of a student’s comprehensive examinations will be reported to the School of Graduate Studies as “pass” or “fail”. If the result of the examinations is “fail”, the student will be given a second opportunity to take the examination, or those portions on which the failure occurred. This second opportunity will normally be offered in mid-December. Students should be aware that they will be required to register and pay full-time tuition fees in order to take this second opportunity. If a student chooses to withdraw from the program prior to that second opportunity, the result “fail” will remain on the student’s record.

IV. M.A. THESIS

Only those students in the course/thesis option will write a thesis.

A student who wishes to write an M.A. thesis should seek out a thesis supervisor as soon as possible on entering the program, and should begin to work out a potential topic for research with that supervisor. The supervisory committee, which must include no fewer than 3 members (including the supervisor) should be established no later than October 16, during Term I of the program. Members of the supervisory committee are normally all from the Department, although one can be from another department.

The student will develop his/her thesis proposal in consultation with the thesis supervisor and other members of the supervisory committee. The thesis proposal must be no longer than 3,500 words or 15 double-spaced pages (including references). The goal of the proposal is to enable the student to focus early in the program on the thesis and to obtain preliminary agreement on its acceptability and feasibility from a supervisory committee. The proposal must also be approved by the supervisory committee before data collection begins. Because of similarities in the structures of M.A. and Ph.D. thesis proposals, M.A. students may want to consult the department guidelines for writing Ph.D. dissertation proposals.

The supervisory committee must submit a memorandum, along with a copy of the thesis proposal to the Graduate Chair. The Departmental requirement is that the thesis proposal be submitted to the Graduate Chair by December 1 during Term I of the program. The supervisory committee will then meet with the Graduate Chair to discuss the proposal and decide whether it is to be formally approved. If the thesis proposal is not approved, the student may continue in the course/comprehensive option.

The thesis defense is to be undertaken according to the regulations set out by the School of Graduate Studies. The M.A. thesis should be no more than 30,000 words (or 125 double-spaced pages) including all front matter, references and bibliography.

The M.A. thesis is normally a two-year program. Space permitting, students in the second year of the thesis program will be provided office space on the 5th floor of KTH, along-side Ph.D. students. M.A. thesis students are also eligible to apply for the graduate travel grants offered by Department.

VI. INSTITUTE ON GLOBALIZATION & THE HUMAN CONDITION

The Institute on Globalization and the Human Condition (IGHC) is a research Institute which hosts an M.A. in Globalization Studies and supports teaching and research on a wide variety of global studies topics. The Institute is located on the 2nd floor of L.R. Wilson Hall (LRW-2021). It runs a working paper series, hosts numerous visiting speakers, awards essay prizes and grants research scholarships. Political Science and International Relations students, with an interest in globalization are welcome and encouraged to take courses in the Institute and participate in all of its activities.
